

Runlab

PRIVACY POLICY

The protection of personal information is important to Runlab. Runlab is committed to respecting individual's privacy and the protection of personal information.

This document sets out how Runlab may collect, hold and use personal information. By providing your personal information to Runlab, you consent to its use, storage and disclosure in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

Why does Runlab collect personal information?

"Personal information" is information or an opinion (including information forming part of a database), whether true or not, and whether recorded in material form or not, about an individual whose identity is reasonably apparent, or can be reasonably ascertained, from the information or opinion.

Runlab collects personal information in order to properly and efficiently carry out its functions, including registration processes for events and training sessions and programming, and to provide you requested products and services, as well as to facilitate the provision of marketing and promotion services that may be of interest to you.

Runlab uses personal information only for the purposes for which it was provided and for directly related purposes (unless otherwise required by or authorised under law). We may state a more specific purpose at the point we collect your information.

If you do not provide us with the information that we request, we may not be able to provide you with our products or services.

What personal and sensitive information does Runlab collect?

Personal Information

"Personal information" is information or an opinion (including information forming part of a database), whether true or not, and whether recorded in material form or not, about an individual whose identity is reasonably apparent, or can be reasonably ascertained, from the information or opinion.

The information collected by Runlab about a particular person will vary depending on the circumstances of collection. Typically, we collect information from employees and event Entrants and Training entrants only. The information we collect may include, but is not limited to, a person's contact details (name, email and/or postal address, phone number), date of birth, gender, credit card details, employment history, qualifications or previous communications or event history with Runlab.

Sensitive Information

If it is reasonably necessary in the circumstances, Runlab may also collect sensitive information (which is a type of personal information) such as your medical history, nationality or disability backgrounds.

Sensitive information is afforded a higher level of privacy protection than other personal information. Where you provide sensitive information to Runlab, you also provide consent to Runlab collecting it in accordance with this Privacy Policy, unless you tell us otherwise.

How does Runlab collect and hold personal information?

Information may be collected when you:

1. Register for an event or activity organised or authorised by Runlab or other body which is a member or sponsor of Runlab (Affiliate);
2. Subscribe to any publication of Runlab or an Affiliate, including electronic publications;
3. Provide details to Runlab or an Affiliate in an application, registration, consent form, survey, feedback form or incident report;
4. Enter personal information into, or agree to having your personal information entered into, one of Runlab's or an Affiliate's online systems;
5. access the Runlab website or a website of an Affiliate;
6. Contact Runlab via email, telephone or mail or engage with Runlab via social media;
7. Participate in any program, activity, competition or event run by Runlab or an Affiliate;
8. Purchase tickets to an event from Runlab or an authorised agent;
9. Purchase merchandise, products or services from Runlab or an authorised agent or licensee;
10. Are elected or appointed to the Board or a committee of Runlab; or
11. Apply for employment or a volunteer position with Runlab or an Affiliate.

Personal information may also be collected where Runlab is required to do so by law (for education, child protection, work health and safety laws, charitable collections, medical treatment or other legislation in Australia).

Providing information

If you do not provide some or all of the information that we request from you, this may affect Runlab's ability to communicate with you or provide the requested products or services.

By not providing requested information, you may jeopardise your ability to participate in events, programs or competitions or apply for employment or volunteer positions with Runlab or an Affiliate. If it is impracticable for Runlab to deal with you as a result of you not providing the requested information or consent, Runlab may refuse to do so.

Collection from third parties

Runlab or an Affiliate may collect personal information regarding a child from the parent or other responsible person associated with that child.

In some circumstances, Runlab collects information from Affiliates or other third parties. For example: a Team Captain of a team may enter competitor's personal information in bulk; or an agent may provide us with information of a professional competitor; or a tour group organiser may provide information about members of a group. In such circumstances, we will assume that the individual or organisation that provides to us the personal information has authority to do so, unless you tell us otherwise. We will use such information only for our purposes as outlined in this privacy policy. If the information is not required by us for such purposes, we will destroy it

Information storage and protection

Runlab stores information in different ways, including in paper and electronic form. Much of the information we collect from and about entrants is added to Runlab's database. When your information is entered into Runlab's database, the information may be combined or linked with other information held about you.

Security of personal information is important to Runlab. Runlab has taken steps to protect the information we hold from misuse, loss, unauthorised access, modification or disclosure. Some of the security measures Runlab uses includes strict confidentiality requirements of our employees, volunteers, Affiliates and service providers, security measures for system access, and security measures for our website.

How does Runlab use and disclose personal information?

Use

Runlab, and third parties to whom we may disclose personal information in accordance with this Privacy Policy, may collect, hold and use your personal information to:

1. verify your identity;
2. complete employees background checks;
3. research, develop, run, administer and market competitions, programs, activities and other events relating to running;
4. research, develop and market products, services, merchandise and special offers made available by us and third parties;
5. respond to emergency situations involving or requiring medical treatment;
6. administer, manage and provide you with access to our database or website;
7. keep you informed of news and information relating to various events, activities and opportunities via various mediums.

Runlab does not collect any health information from entrants to events. In the event that health information is disclosed to Runlab in the course of running an event, Runlab shall keep that information in accordance with this policy, and may disclose it as required or authorised by law. In addition, we may use other de-identified sensitive information to carry out research, to prepare submissions to government, or to plan events and activities.

Disclosure

Runlab may disclose your personal information to a range of organisations which include, but are not limited to:

1. Affiliates and other organisations involved in athletics programs in Australia;
2. companies we engage to carry out functions and activities on Runlab's behalf, including direct marketing;
3. our professional advisers, including our accountants, auditors and lawyers;
4. our insurers;
5. relevant sporting bodies such as Athletics Australia; and
6. in other circumstances permitted by law.

In some circumstances personal information may also be disclosed outside of Australia. In such circumstances, Runlab will use our best endeavours to ensure such parties are subject to a law, binding scheme or contract which effectively upholds principles for fair handling of the information that are suitably similar to the Australian Privacy Principles.

Direct marketing

We will use non-sensitive personal information to provide better services and for marketing purposes (including disclosure of such information to service providers).

If you do not wish to receive e-mail, SMS or posted offers from Runlab you may opt-out by using the link provided. Alternatively, you may advise us at any time by contacting the Runlab

Privacy Officer.

Other disclosures

In addition, Runlab may also disclose personal information:

1. with your express or implied consent;
2. when required or authorised by law;
3. to an enforcement body when reasonably necessary; or
4. to lessen or prevent a threat to an individual or public health or safety.

Runlab website

When you visit the Runlab and Coastal Ascent website, our systems may record certain information about their use of the site, including the web pages visited and the time and date of their visit. Runlab uses this information to help analyse and improve the performance of the Runlab website.

In addition we may use “cookies” on the Runlab website. Cookies are small text files that assist our website retain user preferences to improve the experience of using our website. In some cases, the cookies that we use may collect some personal information. Runlab will treat this information in the same way as other personal information we collect. You are free to disable cookies on your internet browser to prevent this information being collected; however, you will lose the benefit of the enhanced website experience that the use of cookies may offer.

Websites linked to the Runlab website are not subject to Runlab's privacy standards, policies or procedures. Runlab cannot take any responsibility for the collection, use, disclosure or security of any personal information that you provide to a third party website.

Accessing and seeking correction of information held by Runlab

Runlab will take all reasonable steps to ensure that the personal information it collects, uses or discloses is accurate, complete and up-to-date. However, we rely on the accuracy of personal information as provided to us both directly and indirectly.

We encourage you to regularly review and update your personal information. If you would like to access the personal information that we hold about you, please let us know by making a request via the contact details set out below. We will respond to your request for access within a reasonable period. If you find that the personal information we hold about you is inaccurate, incomplete or out-of-date, please contact us immediately and we will correct it.

Resolving privacy issues and complaints

Any issues or complaints in relation to the collection, use, disclosure, quality, security of and access to your personal information may be made to the Runlab Privacy Officer at this address:

Privacy Officer

Runlab

Vlad Shatrov

Email: vlad@Runlab.com

Phone: 0421003040

We will respond to your complaint within a reasonable period, and try to resolve your complaint for you. If we are unable to resolve your complaint or you are unhappy with the outcome, you can contact the Office of Australian Information Commissioner via its enquiries line 1300 363 992 or website <http://www.oaic.gov.au/> to lodge a complaint.

For further information on Runlab's management of personal information, please contact Runlab.

Runlab may amend this Privacy Policy from time to time.

Date: 30th October 2024